BIFMENTS OF GOLD AND DIAMONDS—THE LATEST FLORES INVASION—HIS DEFRAT AND FLIGHT—BUENOS AYRES TRADE—CHOLERA REFORTS—COMMENCIAL STATISTICS—EXREOTS OF COFFEE FROM RIG—FERNAMBUGO MARKETS.

The steemably Avon arrived at Southempton on 12th Itims. We have dates from Buen's Ayres, January 2; (enterideo, 5; Rio Janeiro, 15; Bahia, 19; Pernambugo, 2

The Avon had on freight, specie from Buenos Ayres, 4,936; Pernambuco, £699; from Rio Janeiro, 472 oz. of 5d, say, value, £1,400; total, £7,025, and diamonds, steed at £22,258.

At Buenos Ayres it was generally believed that the negotiations at the Params would end in nothing. Everything was dull and gloomy. The British Packet of December 29, publishs the following:—

The new invasion of Flores must be held the event of the week. He disembarked at Las Fiedras with some three or four companions, and on the 24th we find him about the sources of the Arroyo del Medio, some 10 leagues inland, at the head of a party numbering up wards of 100, including Bustos, Lameia, Clavero, Luzurriega, &c.

three or four companions, and on the 24th we find him about the sources of the Arroyo del Medio; some 10 lesques inland, at the head of a party numbering upwards of 100, ircluding Bustos, Lameia, Clavero, Luxurriga, &c.

On this occasion, judging from their published correspondence, the Sanisfectino authorities on the frontier appear to have acted with spitit and in good faith, which we hall as a welcome aymotom of rehroring confraterative. Colonels Orono and Cardoso, advised of the assemblage, immediately started in prasuit; and to their effective co-operation the east discomitius of the enterprise must be mainly asserbed.

On the 24th, a convey of arms and ammunition, evidently intended for the invaders, was intercopied by Commandant Cardoso, and the eccort, consisting of an officer and eight men made prisoners. This no onely disconcrited the plan in a vital public; still, on the following merning, Christmas day, they crossed the Rubison—that is, the Arroy odd Modio, the boundary line between this state and Santa Fé—thereby consummating the invasion. Having arrived at the Canaca and Arboitto, apparently without pursuit or molectation, they there halled; and on the aftersoon of the same day the party, from some cause or other, broke up and dispersed. Of the dispersed part must have recrossed the Arroy odd Medio, for we hear of twenty being captured by the authorities of Santa Fé. Menambile, Flores, with his staff and some stry followers, shaped a course southward, apparently in the direction of Pergamino. These are the esenuits facts, extracted from the series of communitations that form the official bulletin published by the Crontox, in which, to be ended, we find some things we do not comprehend, and consequently cannot explain.

Nothing further is known of the movements of the invaders; but by the latest account they were still in the territory of the State, and so far from being routed, had not even been attacked.

In the southern frontier Colonels Gonzalez and Ocampo, with a force of 1,000 men, rad assume

In export produce, large contracts for hides had taken place, but, nevertheless, it was expected that in consequence of se many vessels being in port, a large number would be compelled to leave in ballast. Since the news by the Pampero, which arrived on the 50s of Desember, wool had shown a slight downward tendency; but the bulk of the clip had previously been contracted for Shearing operations were considerably delayed for the unsettied state of the weather. The work, however, came in rapidly, and all parties agreed that it was by for the best conditioned clip ever remitted from that quarter. The came assigned is that sheep had acquired an intrinsic value, and were attended to accordingly.

A barbarons murder is stated to have taken place at Buenor Ayres' on the morning of the last of January, but no particulars are given.

From Menterideo our advices state that disunton, anarchy and prestration appear to have reached a coloniar. Senor Verges had arrived on his way to life January, and had been confided to General Guide, near the government of Paraguay, as a representative of the Confiderate provinces.

Intelligence from Rio says:—The cholera had disappeared from the capital, but had broken out in other portions of the Brazilian empire. A statement had been published which shows the amount of bustness transacted during the year 1855, and, although the mischler produced throughout the country by the cholera and the political position of Europe are considerable, the increase of trade is perceivable. In imports more activity prevailed during the first six months than in the three preceding scasons, though with little improvement in prices, excepting four, provisions generally, and a few other articles, some of which realized high raise, subsequently causing heavy arrivals to take place and a material decline in value. Weven manufactures participated in the improvement in the early part of the year; but this important branch of the import trade, not withstanding the absence of excessivity receipts, as in previous years, became duil during the last four or five months, owing to the cholera which tended to paralyze the demand and intercourse with the interior of the country, whence remittances had failen off so materially sate be seriously left by the shopkeepers and importers.

The epidemic in the city and province, fortunately, being comparatively mild and subsiding, gives hope for a better burliness in the present year, which commences with a lighter stock of goods than of late years. The progression means of conveyance by rail and otherwise bullion, as also to ofter unusual demands for remittances to Europe.

The total imports du ing the year 1855 amounted to about £2,00,000, and exports to about £4,00,000. The caffee exported is estimated at 2,652,600 bags against 1,994,575 in 1854. The importations of sugar were 1,363,429 arcbas. The rum imported was 15,650 pipes; experted, 1,565 pipes.

The exponencial arrivals were 1,100 vessels of 248,678 tons register against 901 in 1854. The consting trade inwards was concurted by 2,737 vessels, inclusive of 347 steaming-is exhibiting a toursge of 237,213 against 2,679 in 1854. The departures in 1855 amounted to 1,196 vessels of 473,291 tons burden egainst 942 in 1854. The crasting trade outwards above 2,748 vessels, including 339 steambouls, against 2,344 in the previous year. The operations of the mint during 1855 were :—C incling 514, 1,607,320 milreis; do in silver, 1,065,664 milreis, 300 reis; total 2,670,984 milreis, 300 reis. The commercial news for the month from Rio by the Avon states that the saies in coffee were unimportant, dealers wanting higher prices in consequency of the news from Europe and the United States. Dates from Bahia furnish intelligence to the 19th of January. The Christmas hondays were hardly over, and business had scarcely been resumed. The market was superabundantly applied with dry goods, flour and fish. The stock of flour amounted to 19,000 barrels; the latest sales of New Orieans realizing $18 and Richmond $27. The stock of fish, wich reached 18,700 barrels, was realizing $15. Sugar from the interior arrived freely, but from the outports only a few hundred case had come in The crop, it was expected, would be one-third below the average. The stock in hand, when the Avon left, was 4,564 cases. 292 boxes, 671 barrels and 25,000 bugs. The in ellipsee from Pernambuce is thus summed up: The past moperitant one, and important base and nakes have been heavy. The business in dry goods has been but limited, and few weeks have taken plane. In sodiable parks and sales have been heavy. The business is dry goods has been but limited, and few deleases taken plane. In sodiable parks and sales have been concilerables, in the absence of arrivals of jerked beef (of which there was received almost nothing) as high as 15,000 rels per arum was obtained by retail. No material change in the flour markets, and stocks were heavy and moved off slowly. In sugars entries were heavy, and quite equalled by shipmants, the tendency of the market seing somewhat on the rise. Immediately after the arrival of the nast sleamer heavy purcheses were made, at 2|100 to 2|150 rels, while on the 21st 2|300 reis per arroba was paid for Channel browns. This was owing to the decline in freights. Shipping was heavy, and but little doing in the way of charters expiting for ballast to Liverpool. Several vessels were being partly loaded for that port, at £20 per ton. Exchanges fluctuated from 28 ½ d. to 29d., and a large amount was transacted. Cotton was bought up at 5|200 a 5|400 reis, but the entries were trifling.

and leave the commercial world free once more from all such bugbears as have lately agitated it. On this side of the Atlantic we have nothing to fear. Our local affairs are sound, and we have enough to will continue to wrangle, and will, if possible, keep the public mind in a state of excitement; but we have not the least idea that they can embroil us in a war with any European Power, or interrupt the movements of commerce which are going on now within that period been agitated, and with many of them a war with some Power has seemed inevitable. Politicians have blustered, correspondence to an interminable length has passed between been increased in every way by all sorts of demababilities or possibilities of a rupture. Notwithstanding all the indications which have, from time to time, appeared, of a suspension of amicable relations with Great Britain, we have been at peace upwards of forty years, and are likely to continue so. These little difficulties last just long enough to exercise a moderate check upon all illegitimate operations, and serve to preserve a proper equilibrium in commercial affairs. Carried to this extent they are harmless, and their conservative influence is of the States and Great Britain to involve the two countries in a war must be futile, so long as the most important interests of the people are so identified. The industrial classes are not affected by the long drawn out, long winded negotiations of a few onicials. The farmer does not stop his plough, or the artizan his machine, because there is an issue between his government and another, upon points which could be adjusted by wise and sensible men in a short time, to the satisfaction of all. The industry and enterprise of the country cannot be arrested because diplomatists disagree about the construction of a treaty. The seasons come and go, crops are sown and harvests mature, regardless of the lies and quibbles of cabinet ministers. Vessels arrive and depart, loaded with the products of every clime, without apprehensions of any interruption in our commercial intercourse with nations. The pub-lic mind cannot be induced to believe in the possibility of a rupture growing out of the trifling points at issue, but it must be prepared for a long and edious agitation of the most unimportant matters; for the most violent denouncement of each party by the press of both countries, by all sorts of crimination and recrimination, by the use of every effort to arouse the pride and petty prejudices of the people interested, on both sides of the Atlantic—all to end finally in an amicable settlement of all difficulties, in an adjustment of all questions, present and prospective, and the re-establishment of peaceful relations, until it suits the government of either country to raise again an issue requiring the rehearsal of similar scenes. It is time for our people to place these matters in the proper light. A war between the United States and Great Britain is almost an impossibility. The people have the issue in their own hands, and are prepared to assume the powers when necessary. Public opinion is the great regulator, and when necessary it acts decisively. There is a point beyond which the governments of either country cannot pass without the consent and sanction of the people, but that point has not yet been approached. We are probably as near it now as our rulers dare move, and

tion, all their denials and admissions, are harmless and only serve to amuse and interest the few politi-cal demagogues which every country of any impor-tance is unfortunately inflicted with.

In our local financial affairs nothing new has transpired during the past week. Notwithstanding the bundance of money, the rates of foreign exchange remain at points so low as to prevent large shipments of specie. The banks show a very large specie basis, and the receipts of gold is so far in excess of our exports that an increased supply must appear in the regular weekly bank returns. This must lead to a rapid expansion of bank loans, and to greater ease in financial affairs generally. As soon as the spring opens we shall have an activity in business almost unparalleled in the history of this country. The exports of specie last week was exceedingly limited, as will be seen by the annexed statement:-
